Danton Plans Mall Complex

L. John Davidson and Phidias G. Dantos, partners in Danton Realty Trust, announced Wednesday their plans for a Main Street commercial and apartment complex encompassing three properties previously held by Mrs. Samuel M. Glazerman diagonally across from Town Hall.

Announcement of the development, which has been rumored for some weeks, was made upon completion of final negotiations.

The Andover developers, whose company has been responsible for construction of the Standard International Building in Elm Square and redevelopment of both the Killorin property adjacent to the post office and the Andover Shop-

Coffee Mill complex on Main Street, said in outlining their plans that they will involve the "largest investment yet in Andover square."

Preliminary sketches show an arrangement of stucco and brick shops facing onto a 50 foot mall of scored concrete, a professional building annex to the rear of Hill's Hardware and a number of two-bedroom apartments over the major area of new construction which will overlook the mall and Main Street.

Davidson and Dantos said that though the preliminary sketch is not accurate in this respect, it is their plan to strip and restore the two existing buildings that will be part of the project. These face Main Street and are occupied by a dress shop, florist and beauty parlor.

From the center of the mall, shoppers will be able to walk down to what Davidson and Dantos hope will be a two-level parking area for 100 to 125 cars. This will be constructed below street level, but above ground, Davidson explains that the plan is possible because of land elevations in the area, providing the location of Rogers' Brook under part of the property does not present an unforeseen problem. In this event, a one-level parking center will be developed, he said.

All the sale items were baked by members of the eighth grade graduating class and the sale was held in the lower church after Sunday Masses in conjunction with the cooperation of St. Augustine parish pastor, Father Kenneth J. Kennedy, OSA.

Co-chairmen for the event were Beth Black and Mary Ellen Kearns. Members of the committee included Gail Aucherlonie, Jayne Brennan, Maryjane Costello, Beth Curtin, Erin Garvey, Mary Rose Macklin, Mary McCabe, Juliana McGovern, Rosemary O'Hagan and Jean Igoe.

Special donations were also received from Mrs. J. Turgen, Cynthia Collins and Linda Dow.

Charles Liponis, president of Andover Business Insurance, confirmed that he is available real estate in the neighborhood of his Main St. home with a view to acquiring space for some 20 students.

Liponis said ABI is an increasing number of students from New Hampshire who need lodging in Andover or 20 such students coming in Andover.

A final decision about the plans is, however, not possible that Dan Liponis reports that it is possible that Dan Liponis will add a third present school, to present school, but it is also possible that ABI will build a new dorm somewhere on the town. Preferable, says Liponis, would be a location adjacent to the 93 access. The school has another dorm.

It is possible that Danton Realty

Loebel Expects OK For SAM-D

Government announcement late last week of an advanced development contract for Raytheon Co. did not produce the sort of definite commitment for Andover facilities anticipated, but it can mean an eventual Federal investment of several million dollars in production of a new surface-to-air missile at the local manufacturing plant. Raytheon announced from its Lexington headquarters May 19 that it had received a letter of intent in the amount of $2.1 million to initiate the advanced development effort of the SAM-D surface-to-air missile development) program. This followed on the heels of unconfirmed reports that the company would receive a development and production contract for SAM-D that could be worth ultimately as much as $2.5 billion to the New England electronics manufacturer, most of it for production work in Andover.

Plant Manager, Harry A. Loebel, said Wednesday, however, that any real benefits to the Andover facility are at least two years off. The reason for this, he said, is because the government awarded a short-term development contract instead of a research-through-production contract as anticipated. This means that Washington will take a look at the end of the development period before deciding whether or not to go ahead with SAM-D.

Loebel expressed his personal conviction that the program for the new missile will continue and that it will eventually mean substantial increased employment for the Andover plant over a "good long period of time."

Work on the contract will be performed principally at Raytheon's missile systems division laboratories at Bedford and at the equipment division in Wayland. Any hardware manufacturing in connection with development of prototypes will be done in Andover, Loebel said.

Raytheon was selected by the U. S. Army Missile Command from among three competing contractor teams which conducted a 5-month contract definition study on the SAM-D program. During this time, each of the contractors spelled out in detail their proposals for developing a missile system capable of simultaneously acquiring, tracking, identifying and destroying multiple air-supported targets.

SAM-D is being developed for a continental and battlefield air defense role in the 1970's, against high-performance aircraft - both low and high flying - and short-range missiles. It will be highly mobile and capable of engaging several targets simultaneously.

It is planned for eventual replacement of the Nike-Hercules and a portion of the Hawk air defense systems, both operational in the United States and overseas. The Hawk is a product of Raytheon, Andover.

League Votes Fiscal Study

The 38th convention of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters, held May 16 and 17 at the Somerset Hotel in Boston, came to a tense conclusion as representatives of local leagues throughout the state voted on the program for 1967-69.

A non-recommended study of local policy, which required approval by a two-thirds majority of delegates, was passed only when the president, Mrs. Laurence P. of Lexington, broke a tie vote. County government and programs for juvenile offenders, including the Youth Service Board, were also adopted as new study items by the convention.

The nine member Andover delegation was led by Mrs. George H. Merrard, president of the local league. Others attending were Mrs. Douglas Dunbar Jr., Mrs. Joseph J. Gorski, Mrs. David Gump, Mrs. Thomas Swift, Mrs. Donald Mulvaney, Mrs. Richard Moody, Mrs. De Von Dyke, and Mrs. Hale Morgan II.

FS Finalist

Miss Nancy Norris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Norris of High Street, Ballardvale, has been notified by the New York Office of American Field Service that she is a finalist in the 1967-68 Americans Abroad Program. She will be notified by mid-July if there is a home available for her with a foreign family. If so, she will spend the academic year abroad and attend school, just as 1966 students have been doing in Andover in recent years.

The Andover High School senior is a member of the National Honor Society. She recently appeared in the cast of "Show Boat".

At Phillips Academy last week-end, regional association leaders of the Andover Alumni Council met to discuss "Education Beyond the Classroom", a topic which has been under close scrutiny as one aspect of the faculty steering committee's two year study of education at Phillips Academy.

The formal program opened Friday evening with addresses by Council President James P. Baxter and Headmaster John M. Kemper, Instructor in religion, Timothy Callard, presented the plans for the United South End Project, which will this summer involve Andover and Exeter students in volunteer work in Boston. Senior class president, Mark Logsdon, then spoke of his experience as a volunteer worker at the Essex County Training School under PA's community service program. The Friday evening session, which focused on off-campus educational experience, was capped by a showing of the slide tape on Russia created by Thomas Parry and Peter Wellington from their summer with the Choate School's Russian Studies Program.

On Saturday morning retiring Dean of Students, G. Grenville Benedict, introduced four seniors who spoke specifically about several forms of extra-classroom education occurring on the Andover campus.

The Climax

The climax of the morning session came with a speech by John Richards, PA history instructor who will succeed Benedict as Dean of students next fall. As a member of the faculty steering committee, he focused on some of the committee's thinking relevant to "education beyond the classroom". He emphasized, "to offer a superior academic education is clearly not enough in this day and age; if Andover and the other independent boarding schools are to justify a place in the educational picture of this country, it must be by doing things that ever-improving public high schools and independent schools cannot do."

Richards pinpointed one of PA distinguishing features as being a boarding school which plays dual role of parent and teacher and thus is responsible for stimulating not only intellectual and physical development but social, emotional, and moral growth as well.

The newly appointed dean then focused on the difficult situation which a boy at Andover often confronts. He is a student in a somewhat restrictive boarding environment but also a member of the teen-age generation of the mid-1960's which has been granted great freedoms in our mobile, materialistic and sensual culture.

In meeting with the student problems which these cultural changes have produced, Richards said that the Academy will be focusing on new ways to make gradations of freedom and responsibility from the 9th to the 12th grade years while simultaneously improving counseling techniques. "Ideally," Richards said, "our students should be handled by men and not by systems; the school community should be a group of human beings relating with other human beings in a personal way". He then went on to describe how by decentralizing the administration of student affairs and relying more heavily on residential groupings of students by class, some advantages of a smaller school will be introduced.

The most immediate changes recommended by the steering committee and approved by the faculty will take place this September when the entire senior class, with the exception of senior producers, will move into the dormitories around Rabbit Pond where numerous increases in freedom will be inaugurated: no formal study hours, freedom of movement on campus until 10 p.m. instead of 8 p.m., and increased opportunities to leave campus on out-of-town permissions.

The administration of "Senior City", as students have dubbed it, will be carried out by the senior housemasters, led by Peter McKee, chairman of the physical department. "Thus," said Richards, "a senior will be living in close contact with those who are responsible for him; his dealings will be to a much greater degree with his and other senior housemasters rather than with a system based in George Washington Hall".

Demolition of the Tyer warehouse shell on Main Street, which is to be the location for a new Andover Public Safety Center, began this week.

The work is being done by Lawrence Building Wrecking Co. of Salem, N. H. This company's bid for the 21-day job was $16,400. The only other bid submitted, $24,700, came from Corey Steeple-Jacks Inc. of Lowell.

On the basis of estimates from Contractor C. Lincoln Giles, from whom the town purchased the warehouse property, the manager had expected demolition to cost about $18,000.

The town will suspend its Main Street tree planting operations this week, delaying further work until fall when weather conditions will again be favorable. Trees have already been set out, however, in a major portion of the central business district.

Summer hours at Town Hall will go into effect June 1 and continue through June, July and August. This means that there will be no more Monday night openings until Monday, Sept. 11 when Monday hours of 6 to 8 p.m. will resume.

Upon the recommendation of Jack Berberian, general services supervisor, the School Committee has approved the low bid of Findeisen's Dairy for the school milk contract for next year.

Berberian reported that this dairy has been a supplier over the past year and has been "doing a good job." He said the low bid of .056 cents was up .0032 over that awarded for the current school year, but with State reimbursements the town could still clear about $1500 on the program. The price to students was dropped in local schools a few weeks ago.

Baseball, Pulitzer Displays At MHL

Upstairs and downstairs baseball at Memorial Hall Library is the subject of displays. The children's room has some fine new pictures of the Red Sox in recent moments of action. Sports photographer, Tom Christie of the Newark, N. J. caught the Sox at home and elsewhere and has kindly loaned prints to the Andover library. Mrs. Henry Berry, children's librarian, is the sister of Bailey Scott, sports editor.

The young adult department on the main floor has baseball books on display, and the adult reading room is also featuring sports books. For men and women there are "how to's" on golf, tennis and fishing. How is your sports I.Q.? For recreational reading on all manner of summer activities, check the Adult Reading Room.

Pulitzer Display

Earlier this month Pulitzer prizes were announced, but the prize poetry book by Anne Sexton has not been available; wholesalers were out of Sexton's LIVE OR DIE, and book stores had not received their orders from the publishers. This is unusual, but gratifying, interest in contemporary poetry. Memorial Hall Library will display its Pulitzers in the case near the circulation desk in the Main Reading Room starting next Wednesday.

Other titles cited were MR. CLEMENS AND MARK TWAIN by Justin Kaplan; EXPLORATION AND EMPIRE: THE EXPLORER AND THE SCIENTIST IN THE WINNING OF THE AMERICAN WEST by William Goetzman; THE PROBLEMS OF SLAVERY IN WESTERN CULTURE by David Davis.

International reporting prize was given to R. John Hughes for his coverage of the 1965 attempted Communist coup in Indonesia. Mr. Hughes is foreign correspondent for the Christian Science Monitor. The library has the winning news stories on microfilm since the Monitor is one of two microfilmed papers we take. (The other is The New York Times.) The library also owns a microfilm reader, housed in the special collections area on the main floor, near the New Books. May Meetings Arthur J. Anderson, associate director, attended the two-day spring conference of the Massachusetts Library Assn. held at Chicopee May 18 and 19.

"Libraries of Tomorrow" was the theme, and Eric Moon, editor of "Library Journal" opened the subject wide with his luncheon address on "The Golden Morning of Sometime." Following the luncheon was a panel discussion on new patterns in library service. Jack W. Bryant, head, Worcester Public Library, Mrs. Mildred E. Wagner, coordinator of library services, Needham Public Schools, and John A. Humphrey, state librarian and assistant commissioner for Libraries, New York State Education Department were the panelists.

Design for libraries tomorrow was the topic chosen by the dinner speaker, Philip Johnson, architect.

HOLIDAY CLOSING

The Memorial Hall Library will be closed all day on May 30th in observation of Veteran's Day.

Whenever the library is not open, it is possible to return books by making use of the outdoor book-drop located on Essex Street. An all-weather slot was let into the wall of the new extension at the time of remodeling and curb side parking is restricted to allow patrons to drive down opposite the book return. Look for the yellow curb lines on Essex Street!

The Friday luncheon meeting was addressed by P. Albert Duhamel, literary editor, Boston Herald-Traveler and professor of English, Boston University.

Friday afternoon Anderson toured the Robert Frost Library of Amherst College, several branch libraries of Springfield, and Memorial Library of the Springfield Hospital.

Last week Miss Elizabeth Russell, supervisor of work with children, and children's librarian, Mrs. Henry Berry, attended the New England Round Table of Children's Librarians' story hour workshop at the Roslindale Branch of the Boston Public Library.

Friends Of Home Pay Tribute To Mrs. Vigeant

At a Thursday luncheon meeting of the Greater Lawrence chapter of Friends of the New England Home for Little Wanderers, Mrs. Philip Vigeant retiring president, was given a gold pin in recognition of her "devotion and untiring efforts" in organizing what is now one of the largest Friends chapters assisting with support of the home.

The surprise presentation was made by Mrs. S. Joseph Hoffman.

Elected to office for the coming year were the following: Mrs. David J. Fox, president; Mrs. Arthur J. Wooten, vice president; Mrs. David Fleming Jr., recording secretary; Mrs. Dudley Robinson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ernest Kaufman, treasurer; Mrs. Brewster Seewald, assistant treasurer; Mrs. Martin L. Neistadt, ways and means; and Mrs. Robert Levinson, membership. The slate was presented by Mrs. Arthur Rairigh, nominating chairman.

Mrs. George Howland of Needham, president of all of Friends chapters, affiliated with the home was a luncheon guest and Gordon Faux, administrative assistant for the New England Home, was the speaker.

Hospitality chairman for the Andover luncheon were Mrs. Daniel Sullivan Jr. and Mrs. John Phillips.

A Reason For Discomfort

"Your generation," taunted a Merrimack College senior recently, "has made a mess of the world."

Then he flung out an added insult . . . "Things will be different in ten years or so when young people will outnumber the old . . . when we are running things!"

At this we smiled, as people over 40 always do when confronted with the brash, arrogant confidence of youth. For we recalled with melancholy an earlier time when we too stood on the threshold, full of hope and brave . . . sure that our world would be a better world than the world had ever known before . . . sure that men would be wiser and peace less elusive . . . certain that people everywhere would finally comprehend the logic of doing unto others as they would have others do unto them.

The college boy was right. We have failed to achieve what we dreamed, and this is never more clearly evident than on Memorial Day when year after year we add to the list of those we mourn the names of the dead of new wars.

Eternal as the process seems, there is reason to hope, however. Man is moving forward, inching toward his goal, wrestling with his baser instincts and achieving small victories more frequently than we can realize from looking at the panorama of events.

But we should not become comfortable with this philosophical view, for the world will never be truly safe for democracy until men of all ages are fired perpetually with the same impatience with imperfection that so fleetingly spurs the young of every human generation.

It is our willingness to accept so readily what we call the "realities" of life that brings us eventually to the need for another Memorial Day.

Wait & See

It is time for Athletic Director Donald Dunn to curtail his public pronouncements about the condition of the playing fields at the new senior high school.

No one can have missed hearing that he is displeased with the number of "rocks" presently on the surface of the athletic grounds, and people must be just as well informed about the manager's repeated statements that work on the fields is not yet complete and that the contractor is still responsible to comply with the terms of his contract.

Equally well aired is the added piece of information that the topsoil used for covering the field is not of superior quality because the building committee, in an attempt to hold costs in line, requested use of material recovered from the building site. And this means that Dunn may have to content himself with something less than perfection if the budget runs dry.

Now that his views are known, Dunn should Wait and See. Further haranguing will simply add to the tensions that are mounting as the problem-plagued school moves into the final stages of construction.

Compact Comment

Andover's Selectmen personally financed the planting of the maple tree that was set out two weeks ago along side the curb in front of Town Hall. The suggestion was Sid White's, but each of the five men readily fell in with the plan.

For the townspeople, we thank the board. Long after the individual names of its members are forgotten, their tree will shade Main Street as a reminder that the Selectmen of 1967 were interested in beautifying one corner of the world for future generations.

People who have difficulty finding a good word to say for the younger generation should have been in the audience for recent productions of "Show Boat" and "Camelot" at Andover High School and Phillips Academy respectively.

The near-professional quality of student performances for these shows help to prove that young people have greater capabilities than ever before . . . and that school presentations need not be something that parents attend with the same enthusiasm that they would summon to force down a spring tonic!

The Port Gibson, Miss. REVELLE takes the view that "In our vast space program it is possible we may in not many years put a man on the moon — but here on earth, with so many strikes, and threats of strikes, it seems very difficult to keep one on the job."

What Our Readers Say

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:

Your comprehensive treatment in the May 18 issue of the developments regarding the legislative vacancy created by Representative Williams' resignation was very enlightening.

It is very unsound to give the House Speaker a free hand to determine when elections should be held to replace a member who does not complete his term in office. No district should be denied representation for an extended time, because the House Speaker finds it politically strategic to do so. The law should make specific provisions to deal with this situation on a routine administrative basis that rules out political maneuvering. If a regular election is to be held within six months of the declared vacancy, that should be suitable to fill the office. Otherwise the State Board of Elections should be required to declare a date for the special election three months from the time the position becomes vacant. This will allow sufficient time for the parties to go through their nominating procedures and candidates to wage their campaigns.

As for the vacancy at hand, I am convinced that the parties should offer us a candidate who will work for the following type of program:

1. Get the Crime Commission report out of mothballs and implement some of its worthwhile proposals. I am under the impression that the legislature has failed to act on even one of them.

2. Work for real integration of the scores of special boards and commissions and the other government departments so that functions are performed efficiently and economically.

DANTON PLANS

Neither man would quote the purchase price for the real estate involved, nor attempt a solid estimate of the anticipated investment in the total project. Davidson did say, "I don't expect it to run more than one million."

The developers reported that eight tenants more than they can house in the retail space to be created have already expressed an interest in occupancy.

"We solicited for about 48 hours and the response was so enthusiastic that we stopped and are trying to tailor the space to those interested," Davidson said. The merchants involved are all currently active in downtown Andover. Davidson said that he and Dantos considered the advantages of both seeking tenants from outside the local business community (which would prevent vacancies in existing commercial facilities) and of seeking them in Andover, despite the effect this might have on present real estate. The Danton partner said the later course was decided upon because he and Dantos believe the effect of any dislocations would be temporary.

"If the response is indicative, merchants here are showing for the first time their real desire for improvements downtown," Davidson said. He said that the merchants are no longer "contracting through fear" and that this represents a complete change in thinking in the past 24 months.

Davidson added that sketches and plans for their complex will be given to Architect Archibald McLaren, who is to design the new municipal office building, and discussions held with a view to keeping the projects harmonious.

Commenting on municipal attitudes toward their ventures, Davidson said, "If we did not have people in Town Hall we feel we could discuss legitimate problems with . . . people interested in improvements . . . we could not undertake this thing." "With one or two exceptions, we are delighted with the plus attitude in Town Hall," he added.

The preliminary plans for the new complex allow for roughly 28,000 square feet of street level store space. Two key stores will sit at the rear of the mall and these may either be one-story or one-and-a-half story shops with

3. Establish real separation of legislative and executive authority by terminating legislative ability to make appointments to hundreds of non-legislative positions. These positions are merely political sinecures and could be eliminated without the slightest ripple in state operations.

4. Eliminate the County governments and the Governor's Council, which merely provide many political jobs of a completely superfluous nature.

5. Strengthen the machinery to assure clean state government by expanding the Criminal Investigation Division of the Attorney General and the operations of the State Auditor. Make all State activities, including those of legislators as individuals, subject to their scrutiny. No one should have anything to hide!

6. Strengthen the Civil Service by a sound job classification and salary plan; bringing all positions except the top policy-making posts under civil service and out of the clutches of the patronage boys; establishing sound, competitive qualification requirements for all positions; and by eliminating absolute veterans preference.

7. Help develop a new auto insurance approach that discourages phony claims, provides required protection, and prevents constantly rising insurance rates.

8. Re-evaluate state-municipal relations in the area of schools, road construction, health, air and water pollution control, public assistance programs, public safety, financing.

9. Eliminate the direct acceptance of private, special-interest bills, which take up so much of the Legislature's time and prevents adequate consideration of important public matters.

10. Keep the electorate informed of all significant developments at the state level so that we can be better informed on the issues. The local newspapers would be happy to print this material.

Danton is checking now into the demand for additional professional space in Andover and will firm up or alter these plans on the basis of what is learned. As for the apartments, they will be two-bedroom residences priced at $150 to $175, Davidson said.

The renovation and restoration of the dress shop area will get underway immediately, the two men said. Work on the balance of the project will begin as soon as complete specs and plans are completed. Formal construction is expected to begin in the fall and the "delivery date" has been set as Aug. 1, 1968.

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:

The Townsman reports that the Andover League of Women Voters, a diligent political group, shall "continue its work in support of . . . construction of flexible school buildings."

If possible, will the League give us its definition of the term "flexible school building" with some examples of how they differ from those which are not flexible? Also some examples of the advantages of flexible buildings?

Such information would be beneficial because some people not fully impressed with this popular educational term "flexible," contend that "flexible school building" is mostly a phrase for describing buildings which encourage much activity that is as pleasant, useless and time wasting as the game known as Musical Chairs.

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:

Since my mother is vice-president of A Better Chance, I think we of Andover, the whole city should work on it. I don't think they should be lazy and watch TV. I don't like that stuff. All I'm going to say is think of the poor.

A Better Chance is a program that helps boys who are smart but do not go to a good school. People who go to a good school should not be lazy.

You could help too by your interest.

Capsule

Lately, the pharmaceutical connotation of this word, in the public's mind, has been replaced by its space-age meaning. Mention "capsule" to a layman, and he immediately thinks of astronauts speeding in orbit around the earth.
Actually, the term "capsule" literally means a small box or case. It is derived from the Latin word capsula, a diminutive form of the Latin capsa which means a box or chest. The pharmaceutical "capsule" got its designation from the fact that its parts fit together as do a box and its cover.

Lieutenant Governor Is Speaker For ACC Meeting

Andover Chamber President Eugene A. Bernardin Jr. announced today that Lieutenant Governor Francis W. Sargent will be the guest speaker at the Andover Chamber's Annual Meeting on the evening of Wednesday, June 28.

The meeting is being held at the Sheraton Rolling Green Motor Inn and will begin promptly at 7 p.m. It will be preceded by a social hour.

The annual meeting committee, under the chairmanship of Miss Mary Ann Bonelli, has planned a varied program. The Andover High School Chorus, assisted by Miss Patricia McDowell as soloist, will entertain. And two special awards will be presented - the "Community Service Award" and the "Chamber President's Award."

Miss Bonelli reports that all Chamber members, their wives, friends and associates are invited to attend this affair. Because re-

Lt. Gov. Sargent's remarks are limited, Miss Bonelli suggests that they be made at the earliest possible date.

ABC Receives Four Of Ten Acceptances

Four of the ten boys invited by the Andover A Better Chance Committee to attend high school here during the next academic term have written to accept and replies from the remaining six are expected within a few days.

Letters from ABC went out to the candidates late last week.

The committee met Thursday to report two major developments in plans for the program for culturally deprived boys. First, it was announced that William H. Deacon Jr., an instructor in biology and physiology at Andover High School, his wife and their two children will be the "faculty family" living with the boys at the recently acquired dormitory at 134 Main Street.

Deacon, the son of the late Rev. W. Harold Deacon who was rector of Grace Episcopal Church for many years, expressed an interest in working directly with the ABC program early in discussions of the plan.

The committee also announced that it is launching a campaign to raise $50,000 in Andover for support of the program over a three-year span. Of this total, an estimated $25,000 will be needed in the first year to cover such start-up expenses as the down payment on the dormitory, for which the committee paid a reported $40,000.

ABC expects to receive $20,000 per year from the Rockefeller Foundation, which with local funds would give them a three-year operating budget of $110,000. An estimated $57,000 of this total figure will be needed for student support to cover food, travel, clothing, insurance, health and tuition.

Of the boys asked to Andover, seven are Negro, one is Puerto Rican and two are white.

The four who have accepted are: Donald Ingram of Nashville, Tenn., Peter Apone and Mark Ayers of Springfield, Ohio and Daniel Diggs from Richmond, Va.

Thompson Will Move Business

Kenneth Thompson, president of Kenneth P. Thompson Co., Inc., reports that he will move his office equipment and stationery store business from its present Main Street location to new space in the building next to the post office being developed for commercial space by Danton Realty Trust.

The move will be made sometime between July 1 and Aug. 1, Thompson said.

Graduated

Miss Linda Stulgis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent F. Stulgis of Andover graduated Sunday at Monticello College, Godfrey, Ill. Sen. Everett McKinley Dirksen delivered the commencement address.

Ober Offers Parade Rides

Gold Star Mothers who would like to ride in the Memorial Day Parade on May 30 are asked to notify Elmer S. Ober in the veterans service office at Town Hall so that he may arrange for transportation.

Door-to-door transportation will be provided for those who request it.

Police, Chamber Will Distribute Safety Booklet

Andover police will begin ringing doorbells within the next week or two to introduce themselves to residents and present copies of a booklet offering townspeople tips for the protection of their property and welfare.

The pocket-sized publication, "Guardians of your Property and Welfare," is being distributed by the police in cooperation with the Andover Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the venture.

Some 8000 copies of the booklet will be distributed throughout the community in an attempt to call attention to the kind of mistake property owners make that give lawbreakers the advantage they need.

The same booklet has been widely distributed throughout New England, New York and New Jersey but this is the first time a Chamber of Commerce has been the sponsoring organization.

Announcement of the program was made this week by Police Chief David Nicoll and Atty. Thomas Tavenner, a member of the Chamber board of directors.
